Testimonial

“The Leadership Excellence Series has been an invaluable tool for our organization. Before we started using it, our management development efforts were not nearly as effective.”••

Corey Cooke, President, Signature Consulting Group

Case Study

As a leading edge consulting services firm, Signature Consulting Group (SCG) provides a wide spectrum of business and information technologies services to commercial organizations and government Agencies. SCG specializes in Health Information Technology & Interoperability and building open source collaborative communities, eLearning, and social business portals.

Utilizing a multi-faceted approach to each problem, SCG is able to build the best solution, thereby providing tangible results to a project. With SCG's unique ability to fully understand aspects of both the health operations and the systems side of problems, they can effectively develop solutions to both. SCG is dedicated to providing business-focused management consulting to health management and information services to clients.

SC provides value to its customer through a number of key internal measures:

- Clearly defined practice areas of services:
- Continued employee learning and development through training and establishment of company industry knowledge base
- Established processes and reusable methods with a focus on continual process improvement

SC provides IT services in Big Data Analytics & Business Intelligence (BI), Web Portal and Application Engineering, and Cyber Security and Information Assurance. In business management, SCG focuses on Program & Capital Management, Change Management Strategy, and Collaboration Management through Social Media.

The Leadership Excellence Series allows an executive to develop valuable managerial skills through self-study. To maximize its effectiveness, it is often combined with Results-Oriented Executive Coaching.
